

To our beloved customers:

We would like to assure you that our commitment to serving your inter-dimensional needs continues unabated. This silly "coronavirus" that is plaguing the human realm of Earth does not affect us, as we are a pan-dimensional corporation.

You can be assured that your fellow travelers are bunking down in our facility with their typical lack of regard for the other beings in other rooms and on other floors; the privacy and security of our customers remains of paramount concern to us. Therefore, practitioners from the mystical community, serial killers of any stripe, and the incredibly wealthy and eccentric may count on us to keep providing an amazing overnight or extended stay. In fact, we're offering bonus Stay Points™ for customers who can claim membership in all three of those categories.

Quality cuisine will continue to be served, fresh linens will continue to be provided, and the amazing standards of service you have come to expect from a Hotel Bismarck stay will continue to be upheld.

We look forward to your continued patronage, disregarding the petty proclamations of your local authorities. After all, what fun have they ever been?

Clifford Carlsson, Proprietor-In-Chief

